Asara Lovejoy, CEO of Commanding Wealth Seminars® announces the publication of her new book, The One Command and the launch of the nation wide, The One Day – The One Command Events.

Asara has gone from down-and-out to leading the field in a different approach to living: an approach that has brought success to her and the folks who are discovering the simple yet powerful results of thinking in theta - an enormous untapped potential right within our brain. Asara says, "This is not wishful thinking but asking the right questions - then going into the theta brain wave – the brain wave of successful athletes and the rich and contented - just to mention a few, and then ‘commanding’ a result". She explains how thinking in theta applies to everyone in the success of their everyday life.

The success stories of those learning the simple 6-Steps to theta and issuing The One Command are arriving daily from around the world. The loud and dramatic praise is that this new and extraordinary information really works! The repeated spontaneous response is that this is, “The missing piece to stopping your negative thoughts dead in their tracks and actually getting what you want”.

Asara didn’t stop with just writing her book. She created a support team to take The One Day – The One Command seminars around the nation where the information in her book is put into action.

in addition, she created miracles right in people’s living room through the Commanding Wealth Circles® program. By going to Free Learning at CommandingWealth.com and downloading the PDF that shows you how, thousands have brought this information into their homes and are sharing their success stories at Commanding Wealth yahoo group.

The launch of her new book, The One Command, CD’s, worldwide Commanding Wealth Circles®, eLearning for Success program, teleseminars, webinars and national tour of The One Day – The One Command event are generating tremendous buzz and public response. Thank you for sharing our story.
